BEAUTIFIERS FEAST

AND TELL EACH OTHER ABOUT THE MODEL TOWN,

All but Wheeler H. Peckham, Who Kloked Against Skyserapers and Slums-Dr. McConnell Asks for a New Church Architecture Spires Out of Date Here.

There were many speakers at the dinner of the Municipal Art Society last night, and they all talked about "The Ideal City." To most of them such a city is a place of parks, statuary and beautiful buildings, all in harmony

Wheeler H. Peckham was the pessimist at the feast. He so described himself. He called the other speakers down from the clouds and said he would first work for the city habitable and strive later for the city beautiful. Then Mr. Peckham mentioned some of the things which he thinks make the city uninhabitable.

His first grievance was against skyscrapers. "I read in my paper," he said, of the benevolent project to build a great hospital for the victims of tuberculosis where they might have air and sunlight. And in the same paper I read of the plans for another thirty-story building.

*How considerate we are! We build a hospital for the consumptive and then erect a structure in which consumption breeds so there will never be any lack of patients.

"What are we trying to do? What do we mean by putting up these horrible structures, to the lower floors of which no sun-

Hight ever penetrates.
"When Broadway is lined with these estructures there won't be room in the street for the tenants, unless they are packed horizontally thirty feet deep. It was never meant that we should house such a popu-lation on the lower end of Manhattan. It is a monstrous idea."

It is a monstrous idea.

It is a monstrous idea.

Mr. Peckham then deplored the condition of the slums, where he said that thousands were slowly starving.

The Rev. Dr. S. D. McConnell said that The Rev. Dr. S. D. McConnell said that ecclesiastical architecture must be revolutionized as the result of steel construction. He implored all architects who might be present to devise a new style of church structure that would be in harmony with the environments in a modern city.

"There is nothing so ugly," declared the clergyman, "as a spire that is dwarfed, and so there should be no more spires on the churches built in streets of the city.

"Many churches that were beautiful when they were built are now ugly because of the change in their surroundings."

"Many churches that were badden when they were built are now ugly because of the change in their surroundings."

Park Commissioner Willcox said that the city should look far enough in the future to purchase now while the land is cheap large tracts for future development as Barks on Staten Island.

Borough President Cantor assured the society that within the life of the present administration the desired changes would be made in the Columbus circle and that the Metropolitan Street Railway Company would probably help by consenting to a relocation of its tracks in the circle.

The other speakers were Mrs. Herbert Parsons, F. S. Lamb, R. Fulton Cutting and A. Augustus Healey. John DeWitt Warner, president of the Municipal Art Society and of the Municipal Art Commission, presided

JUDGE PARKER AT COLUMBIA. His Cheering Speech to Young Lawyers Warmly Applauded.

There was a remarkable demonstration in Earl Hall, Columbia University, yesterday at the conclusion of an address on "The New York Court of Appeals" by Chief Judge Alton B. Parker. Judge Parker was cheered over and over again by faculty, crowded the auditorium to hear him.

He said that in the six years following the abolition of the Second Division of the court in 1892 the calendar had fallen behind year since 1870."

In discussing the work of the court, Judge Parker said:

There is hardly an evening from October to July when a Judge is not at work in preparing for the consultation of the following morning. On three mornings every week in length. They sit in the order of service and discuss the merits of a given case on the basis of a report of one of their mem-bers. Many opinions representing much work are torn up as unsatisfactory.

"Trial courts are not at liberty to go the judges hold consultations of four hours work are torn up as unsatisfactory.

Trial courts are not at liberty to go beyond lines established by judicial decisions. The Court of Appeals expands the taw along lines deemed best for the public good by the majority of the judges.

The speaker's manner changed when the turned to consider the court from the lawyer's point of view and there was warmth his words.

"Come to the Court of Appeals the very st opportunity you get," said he, "and first opportunity you get," said he, "and you will get a welcome from every member of the court. Don't be afraid of a blunder for we of the court are old enough to know that no one is old enough to know all the law. And even if you do blunder the court will decide your case on its merits.

The students gathered on the steps of Farl Hall and gave the college cheer for the Judge, who lifted his hat repeatedly.

J. Hobart Herrick, who was injured by a fall of twenty feet down a stairway at the Union League Club on Tuesday night, died at 3:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon without regaining consciousness.

The body was removed to the Herrick home, 63 West Sixty-eighth street.

A member of the family last night gave this account of the accident:

After dinner at the club in honor of Dr. A. L. Ranney, Mr. Herrick joined a game of bridge whist in the chess room on the mezzanne floor, between the second and third stories. He complained of feeling bad and before long asked Mr. H. P. Brown to take his hand. As he reached the door his friends noticed that he seemed in distress. GEORGE FRUH DEAD.

Fled From Justice, Started to Return to Brooklyn and Died on His Way.

By the death of George Fruh, once a popular clubman of Brooklyn, an indictment for grand larceny in the first degree which had been pending against him since last October, when he became a fugitive from justice, has been quashed. It was only by accident that Central Office Detectives Roach, through a two-line death notice in a Brooklyn paper, learned yesterday that Fruh was dead in the home of his sister, Mrs. Margaret Yerkes, at $5 Stuyvesant avenue. The fugitive died on a train from consumption while on his way back to Brooklyn. His wife was with him and although neither she nor the dead man's sister would tell where death occurred the certificate filed in the Health Department said it was Newark, N. J.

Fruh was, many years ago, one of the best-known business mn in Brooklyn. He was an intimate friend of the late John Y. McKane and he was the confidential accountant and bookkeeper of Col. Michael J. The indictment alleged that on May 16, 1902, Brennan and Fruh had fraudulently obtained $5,000 from Charles M. Burtis by representing to him that the property at 514 Myrtle avenue was free and clear when it was not. The day after Brennan's arrest he sent for Fruh and gave him $600 in cash and $2,000 worth of diamonds to deliver to Mrs. Brennan. Fruh disappeared with the property. WON'T CONFER WITH STRIKERS TWO NEW CAPTAINS. ergts. Dillon and O'Beien Promoted

FIRST GO BACK TO WORK, SAY SHIPYARD OWNERS.

Strike Was Ordered After Union Leaders Brooklyn. Dillon was assigned to the command of the West Forty-seventh street station vacated by Inspector Max Schmitt-berger. O'Brien goes to the Oak street station. Knew Metal Trades Association Had Appointed a Committee of Peacemak--Yards May Open to All Labor Soon.

berger. O'Brien goes to the Oak street station.
Capt. Dillon, who is one of the most popular men on the force, found four big floral pieces from two friends, a Royal Arcanum lodge and a council of the same society, when he reached the West Forty-seventh street station last night. When he took command he said that he didn't want the men under him to give him any flowers.

"Just cut that out," he said, "and attend to your work."

It was predicted among the police last night that Dillon would soon take Capt. O'Reilly's place in the Tenderloin. He was a sergeant there for a year under Capt. Sheehan and was left in command there for six weeks while Sheehan took a vacation. He did good work there, but was transferred as soon as Sheehan got back.

Dillon was originally a "sparrow cop." He spent seventeen years in Central Park. The executive committee of the New York Metal Trades Association yesterday rejected a proposal of the Marine Trades Council to meet a committee of five of the association at 3 o'clock this afternoon for the purpose of arbitrating the strike. The committee also decided to send an ultimatum to the council to the effect that there could be no arbitration until the strike was declared off.

Commissioner H. C. Hunter of the Metal Trades Association sent the following letter to W. Moran, secretary of the council:

to W. Moran, secretary of the council:

DEAR SIR: I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated March 11, 1993, wherein you inform me that a committee of the Marine Trades Council of the district of New York will wait on the committee of New York will wait on the committee appointed by the New York Metal Trades Association to confer with the committee of the Marine Trades Council.

Inasmuch as the Marine Trades Council has declared a sympathetic strike against the Townsend-Downey Shipbuilding Company, and this strike was declared after the Marine Trades Council had been notified of the appointment of the committee of this association to confer with a committee of the Marine Trades Council . 1 beg to advise you that the committee of this association will not confer with the committee of the Marine Trades Council until the strike is colared off.

This action is in accord with the precedent established by this association last year at the time of the strike of the blacksmiths and hacksmiths' helpers and now embodied in the following section of the declaration of principles of the association:

"Disapproving absolutely of strikes and lockouts, the members of this association will not arbitrate any questions with men on strike. Neither will this association countenance a lockout on any arbitrable question unless arbitration has failed."

"Telegrams have been received all day from the various years antifying me that Police Commissioner Greene spent four nours at the Smith street headquarters in Brooklyn yesterday, most of the time in consultation with First Deputy Commissioner Ebstein. The company has hired a gang of twelve men to go to work in that department to-morrow." noon, when two met met him.
"Where are you going, old pal?" asked "Where are you going, old pal?" asked one of them.

Cooper said it was none of his business. Then the two choked him and went through his clothes, getting a pocketbook, which, Cooper says, contained $20.50. The thieves then ran east through Thirty-second street, with a crowd led by Policenen Boyd and Fitzgerald after them. At Eighth avenue the bluecoats began to fire their revolvers in the air and when the pair reached Seventh avenue they were caught.

The prisoners said they were George Albert and Joseph Brown. The latter had a pocketbook which Cooper said was his, but there wasn't a cent in it.

In the West Side court the prisoners were held in $500 bail each for trial. company has hired a gang of twelve mentogo to work in that department to-morrow."
Wallace Downey of the Townsend-Downey Company, said to a Sun reporter:
"One result of this sympathetic strike, I believe, will be open yards where union and non-union men will be employed. If the fight is carried much further the yards may have to declars war on the unions."

the fight is carried much further the yards may have to declare war on the unions. This association was formed partly to arrange for averting strikes by the appointment of committees. The blacksmiths' strike last summer was settled in this way and an agreement with the union was signed ending next September by which all troubles would be settled by arbitration.

Delegate Parker who signed that agreement on the part of the union, he said, was the man who ordered the blacksmiths on strike at Shooter's Island.

The yards were quiet so far, he said, but one of the men at work was assaulted by strikers near his home in Elizabeth on Tuesday night and two of his teeth were knocked out.

The case was tried a year ago and Huneke obtained a verdict of $25,000. Thomas F. Magna, counsel for the company, appealed and a new trial was ordered. Justice Rich ordered a sealed verdict.

Shoqter's Island obeyed the order yesterday morning.

It was said last night that the strike leaders are in a dilemma. The strike has been unsatisfactory to the men and the strikers expect them to do something. As a last resort they may order a general strike in all the yards.

The strike of the boilermakers and shipbuilders in South Brooklyn, where 2,000 went out on Tuesday, may lead to a determined fight against unionism on the part of the employers.

INDEPENDENCE IN WATERBURY

TRAVEL ON THE TROLLEYS HAS INCREASED 40 PER CENT.

Merchants Beginning to Defy the Boycott and the Movement Is Spreading Strik-ers Canvassing the Merchants, and the Crisis in the Strike Is at Hand.

WATERBURY, Conn., March 11.-The declaration of independence adopted on Monday evening by the citizens of Waterbury went into effect to-day, with the result that the patronage of street cars increased by about 40 per cent. over last week. The organization of the Citizens' Alliance has put new activity into the labor union boycotting committees. They have been busy to-day, as they were yesterday, going about from merchant to merchant. They have a list of upward of a hundred busines men reported to them as having attended men reported to them as having attended the Monday night meeting, and these they are calling upon seriatim. They begin proceedings by saying:

"We understand, Mr. ———, that you attended that meeting on Monday night, and we have called to ask you if it is true."

In some cases business men so called upon have hedged. The majority, however, have had the courage to stand to their guns. One of these last was F. A. Wenzell, a young merchant who has been in business here only about a year, and who prior to the strike was building up a fine trade. He sold the uniform caps to the trolley men, but when the strike came he was compelled to refuse to sell to those who took the strikers' places. He, like all the other business men of Waterbury, was dominated by dread of the boycott.

After the citizens' meeting of Monday might all this was changed. One of Mr. Wenzell's first customers on Tuesday morning was a non-union trolley employee Wenzell's first customers on Tuesday morning was a non-union trolley employee who wanted to get a cap. He got it, and furthermore Mr. Wenzell directed his clerks from that time forth to sell to whomsoever had the money to buy, irrespective of race, color or previous condition of boycott servitude.

A few minutes later Mr. Wenzell was visited by a committee of strikers.

"We understand," said the spokesman, "that you were at the meeting last evening?"

"We understand," said the spokesman,
'that you were at the meeting last evening?

"Yes, sir, I was there," replied the merchant, "and I want you to understand that from this time forth I will ride in cars, and my employees will ride, and that you people in " run my business just as long as you are going to run it. From this time forth
I intend to run it myself."

"That be your position, is it?" said the apolesman.

*That distinctly is my position." replied Mr. Wenzeli This is one case of what has been going on here among the business men for the last forty-eight hours. The situation from all appearances is rapidly approaching a crisis. A man who is in close touch with the current of events said to-day that by to-morrow there would be some interesting developments. Unless the swelling tide of trollev riders is checked it is obvious that the strike is lost.

Deputy Coroner Pond continued his investigation to-day into the Mendelsohn murder. The result to date brings the arrest of the murderer apparently no nearer than it was the day following the crime. If, as is reported, Gov. Chamberlain, under authority of the Senate resolution adopted, offers a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the murderer, the total reward fund will come to something like $12,000. like $12,000.

Will Not Be Pelled. NEW HAVEN, March 11 .- The 4,200 employees on the New Haven railroad who are voting on a question of a strike, realize for the first time the amount of responsibility that rests on their shoulders. There is some doubt expressed that two-thirds of the employees, the required number necessary to bring about a strike condition, will vote to sustain the grievance committee that the road must recognize a joint committee from the Brotherhoods of Trainmen and Conductors who want to present to President John M. Hall a new schedule of wages and running time.

The first meeting for the polling of men began at midnight, when the Switchmen's Union of this city held a secret meeting. The men signed and deposited their ballots and the result was kept secret. The conductors also began voting to-night. It is said that efforts are being made to draw the railroad telegraphers and the men in the marine department into the trouble ployees on the New Haven railroad who
